THE UNPROTECTED CROSSING

FIRE UNIFOTEDTED GROSSING
For the eight, the tragedy at the crossing on 102nd avenue carries a moral that is very plain. Gates or other means of protection are needed there, as at other crossings on streets on which the traffic is as heavy or more heavy. There is vindication in the occurrence of the action of the city commissioners in taking steps to have such protection provided at some of these danger spots at least.

There is a suggestion, too, that as the natter has been taken up there should be a survey made, of the whole city with reference to this question of safe-guarding the level crossing. This accident occurred at a crossing on a railway line where trains operate much less frequently than on some other lines within the city. It is thus shown to be a mistake to suppose the alternative the control of the safe of the control of th party leader, nothing is likely to happen at the Winnipeg convention which will have wider represents on than the speech of Hon.

Arthur Meighen on Menday. The contents they were acurely noteworthy enough—than the circumstances under which it was made; the gathering to which it was delivered; the gathering to which it was delivered; the efforts which had been made to prevent it being delivered; and the remarkable statemont which it drew from Premier Forquon delivered the properties of the property of the content of the property of the content of th of Ontario.

If the framers of the ngenda had forgoten that Mr. Meighen is a man of courage they were given occasion to recall the fact when he stepped upon the platform without when he stepped upon the platform without he had been as the second of the second to be heard in his own defence. And if they supposed he had lest any of his talent for taking care of himself before an audience they were likewise given cause to change their minds. A good many of them must have recalled the occasion when another Conservative leader took the public into his confidence and told them that he had been living in a "nest of traitors".

The speech itself was an exposition and living in a "nest of traitors."

The speech itself was an exposition and a defence of the famous "Hamilton speech"; and an unequivocal repetition of the view embodied in that deliverance. The surprising thing was the reception which this sense, the sense of the party's cherished trents. But the convention went beyond courtesy. It cheered to the echo; and the chers were as much for the Hamilton speech as for Mr. Meiphen. That is the fact which cannot be got around.

Those cheers brought the convention.
